

VEE KNEW ABOUT DER SCHAH, BUT DIS IS RIDICULOUS!

Oct. 26 (IPS)--The following is a direct translation from the German press:

"One of the richest of the newly-rich oil sheikhs, the Sheikh of Oman, has bought up the entire Berchtesgarden area on the Obersalzberg mountain in Bavaria, where Hitler and his entourage once had their summer residence. The Sheikh intends to reconstruct the demolished buildings according to the original plans and open a Hitler museum inside them."

BUSINESS MAGAZINE PROMOTES AUSCHWITZ PROJECT AS PIONEERING

Oct. 26 (IPS)--Writing recently in San Francisco Business magazine, one Paul Van Slambrouck provides startling new evidence that Auschwitz-caliber labor conditions will be the rule in the Rockefellers' "Project Independence" and similar development projects. Entitled "South from Alaska," the article grandly outlines "men and machinery moving to the north slope" while "the West Coast prepares for the 1977 delivery of oil" via the Alaska pipeline. The pipeline is now under construction by the Alyaska consortium which includes Rockefeller-controlled oil companies and the Bechtel Corporation, a CIA-run firm involved in labor-intensive development programs world-wide.

Although his focus is on the benefits to the West Coast "once its refining capacity is increased," Slambrouck refers briefly to the inhuman living conditions prevalent on the construction sites of the pipeline itself: The men work 30 days straight, he writes, under "Spartan living conditions." They then have two days off in "luxurious" Anchorage. But, he adds, the men enjoy it, since they "feel like pioneers." He quotes one: "I feel like a space explorer, except the food is better."

What Slambrouck ignores is that this grueling "30-days straight" regimen consists of 12-hours-a-day labor under a degree of military-like regimentation. Behavior modification specialists for Bechtel subject new recruits to orientation sessions designed to induce terror in any individual inclined to vary his behavior from that prescribed for the 24 hours of each day. Even so, the slave camps currently have a 30 to 40 per cent attrition rate. Reportedly, numerous recruits, at their first sight of the actual working and living conditions, refuse to disembark from the plane.
