

will materialize in the near future. Rockefeller-led New York banks are rescheduling Chile's entire debt-service and amortization due in 1975 (at least $785 million) plus new loans of at least $534 million to meet its expected trade deficit for next year.

However, the austerity that David Rockefeller will demand in return from Chile absolutely cannot be enforced either by the present ruling junta or anybody else. With the inflation rate at 600 per cent, and the recent layoff of 20 per cent of government employees, Chile is still disintegrating too quickly to maintain Rocky's debt. The only way out--even for the military dictatorship--would be to declare a debt moratorium.

JOB TREK TO IRAN STUDIED OVER PAST YEAR IN BRITAIN

Dec. 21 (IPS)--It has recently been uncovered that test projects in preparation for the wide-scale relocation of European labor to slave-labor "development" areas in Iran have been conducted in Britain for over a year.

In the March 1974 issue of the official bulletin of Britain's Overseas Development Ministry, there are reports of continuing exchanges between British and Iranian youth via various international volunteer agencies. While the British groups visit "voluntary" work sites in northwest Iran "to gain experience in the organization of work camps," Iranian youth get first-hand knowledge of Tavistockian community control and youth programs in Britain's industrialized Midlands.

The idea that Britain, the poor man of Europe, could afford any effective foreign aid program is ludicrous; the Ministry of Overseas Development exists solely as an admissions office for Third and Fourth World leaders to Rockefeller's counterinsurgent training schools in Britain. Seminars and working sessions on subjects like world population control and agricultural development in arid zones (like the Mideast) are taking place continuously.

The most famous of these training centers is the Institute for Development Studies at Sussex University, not coincidentally the home of the former director of the Rockefeller-funded Tavistock Institute, H. V. Dicks. Dr. Dicks, whose psychological profiles for the CIA and the RAND Corporation are the basis of the CIA's psychological warfare program against the Soviet Union, works at Sussex under the aegis of the Columbus Centre. The Centre is currently studying "the psychopathology of persecution and genocide," according to Dicks.

Trustee to Dicks' research at Sussex is Harold Lever, currently "private" economic adviser to Prime Minister Wilson, and the master-mind behind the British government's current policies to turn Britain into an Iranian-style work camp.

SHAH'S CRISIS THREAT FIZZLES

NEW YORK, N.Y., Dec. 21 (IPS)--A trial balloon attempt by the CIA's Shah of Iran to force a "crisis management" approach across Europe has fizzled out in the mud of European politics.

On Thursday, the Shah threatened to "destroy the international monetary system" should European nations try to revalue their gold stocks at the market price for the metal. Referring to last week's Martinique agreement between U.S. President Ford and French President Giscard, which permits oil-hoaxed European nations to pay off the Arabs with gold at market price, the Shah threatened, "If our purchasing power is lost, everything goes."

European response, however, indicates that this Trilateral trial balloon has already popped, since the threadbare governments of Western Europe could not sustain the appropriate programmed response nor the necessary mobilization against a growingly resistant working class.

Threaten Collapse

The Arab oil producers would retaliate against any attempt by Europe to "tinker with the price of gold" by raising the price of oil. He warned, "If they want to strangle us in the nine month freeze [on oil prices set last week by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries], we will be like people who are drowning, having recourse to anything. It is not just a question of a few more percentage points of inflation. It could eventually be the end of the world monetary system."

Banking circles connected to the Rockefeller family told IPS that the object of the Shah's ape act was to compel European governments to subordinate their national policies to a centralized world financial institution, as the Trilateral Commission has proposed.

Higher gold prices would provide Europe's slim treasuries with an additional $80 billion in foreign exchange--slightly more than the continent's 1975 oil bill--and give Europe a breathing space before bankruptcy. Trilateral banker Robert V. Roosa told IPS, "The Shah is pushing Western countries to shape up. He's a pretty wide-awake fellow. He wants to see the monetary system run well. The Shah's shocking statement was more designed to get people working than to get them to do whatever he said at the time." Roosa, who formulated the Trilateral Commission's proposal for a new centralized institution to control world finance, added that the Martinique meeting represented a "change
