The hidden power of the hereditary oligarchs

by Criton Zoakos, Editor-in-Chief

The greatest political problem of the United States today is one which most citizens hysterically refuse to admit: old Europe's British-centered oligarchy has, increasingly, been running all of our monetary and financial policies and large parts of our foreign policy. This publication's principal adopted objective is to provide American citizens with the information they need in order to reach for their pitchforks and hound these oligarchs and their American allies and in-laws out of this Republic. In a nutshell, either our project will succeed, or the United States will soon cease to exist as an organized democratic republic, to be replaced by something too hideous to contemplate.

Increasingly since the end of World War II, we have been functioning less and less as a republic because a) information necessary for policy decisions was made less and less available to our citizenry because of the oligarchy's control over the information media and b) on matters of science and technology policy, the central matter of post-World War II politics, our citizens increasingly lost the faculty of judgment, because the oligarchy controls the long term policies of our educational system.

To state the case in summary form: From the latter half of the 19th century to this day, the long-term grand strategy of Great Britain has been controlled by a continuing policy group variously identified as the Cecil Group, the Milner Kindergarten, the Cliveden Set, the Round Table organization or simply "Us." It is dedicated to the establishment of a worldwide imperial order under the general scheme of a "Commonwealth," whose unifying element will be the British world outlook and the "British way of life." The founding documents of this group are two books, Arnold J. Toynbee's Study of History and Lionel Curtis's Civitas Dei. Lionel Curtis was the founder of the Royal Institute of International Affairs, the "mother" organization of the New York Council on Foreign Relations and of the Institute of Pacific Relations (of "who lost China" fame).

Target: American System of economics

The origins of this group go back to a series of lectures delivered at Oxford

Queen Elizabeth of England, head of the most powerful of the continent's royal houses, with Royal Canadian Mounted Police escort during 1978 tour of Canada. Canada's April 1982 official proclamation of Elizabeth as Queen of Canada is leading an oligarchical effort to recolonize North America.

University's All Souls College by John Ruskin and Arnold Toynbee during the latter half of the 19th century. To this day, All Souls is the center of British grand strategy along with its sister outfits, the Royal Institute of International Affairs (Chatham House) and Princeton's Institute for Advanced Studies, also known as "All Souls West."

We can assert that most of 20th-century history of the Western world has been dominated by this group. The story will require a few volumes to adequately present all the facts. The revelation will be a bitter pill to many, but that is another story. Original documents and speeches of the Round Table founders indicate that their sole purpose in proposing this British-dominated world commonwealth was to prevent the spread in the world of the American system of economics as it had then been successfully applied in the industrialization of the United States, Germany, and Japan, and was threatening, from the 1880s onward, to be applied in Count Sergei Witte's Russia.

Throughout the 20th century, every single British cabinet was dominated by this so-called Milner Group, regardless of whether the ruling party was Tory or Labour. This group planned and launched World War I; it dominated and determined the outcome of the Versailles Peace Conference; it ran the German war reparations racket; it put Hitler in power; it launched World War II; it imposed the Cold War between the United States and the Soviet Union; it launched the anti-nuclear movement with Lord Bertrand Russell's Operation Dropshot; it was the brain behind the "Kim" Philby spy caper; it launched the counterculture, environmentalist, and new left movements of the 1960s; it managed the "detente" era of the 1970s; and it is now pushing the genocidal Global 2000 policies of the 1980s.

Ordinary citizens miss the point because they do not possess the training which would inform them that grand strategy in the 20th-century is determined by one overwhelming consideration: science policy. This case became even more emphatic since the detonation of the first A-bomb in 1945. The central objective of the grand strategists at All Souls, over all these decades, has been to put the genie of science back in the bottle. American policies, especially since the assassination of President Kennedy, have been dominated by the allies of All Souls and of Chatham House.

Henry Kissinger, recruited to public life by Sir Isaiah Berlin, an old member of the Milner Group, is an agent of Chatham House, as he himself proclaimed in a speech at Chatham House this May 10. But he is merely one of the many Americans in the service of the British oligarchy and its policies.

The real problem of the American Republic is that all of the country's "old families" which were on the Tory side during the American Revolution, are now in command of most of the nation's positions of influence in banking, industry, education, and what passes for culture. The Cabots and the Lowells and the Lodges still control everything of consequence in New England, including Harvard; the Mellons control everything of note in Pennsylvania and elsewhere; the State of Texas is still controlled by the "old money" behind the Texas Railroad Commission which goes back to Prince Talleyrand de Perigord; a cursory review of the situation with Weyerhaeuser, Field, Biddle-Duke, Du Pont, Harriman, Moore, Peabody, Hanna, Vanderbilt, et al., will further demonstrate the point.

The case of Morgan Guaranty

Morgan Guaranty Trust, whose Chief Executive Officer Dennis Weatherstone, a British subject, issues daily marching orders to George P. Shultz, our present Secretary of State, is a most instructive case in point. It is the only bank on Wall Street which flies the British flag at its corporate headquarters. The late Representative Wright Patman had established, in his controversial "Patman Report," that Morgan Guaranty controls the policies of all other New York banks by means of its control of virtually all "old money" trust funds which are invested in the voting shares of all other New York banks. Representative Patman made the argument that there is no such thing as 12 separate and independent New York banks, but rather an equal number of corporate subdivisions of one single corporate entity presided over by Morgan.

Morgan's policies are dictated by the Bank of England and are conduited to New York via Morgan Grenfell Ltd. The Board of Directors of the Bank of England follows the policies of the British Royal Household, as set by the Scottish Rite Grand "Mother" Lodge of London, presided over by the Duke of Kent.

Our public life is permeated by the influence of the British oligarchy's agents. For instance, how many citizens know that the founder of the CIA, Allen Dulles, was a leading member of the London Royal Institute since at least 1935, during which year he presided over the congresses and conferences of that institute? Or, how many Americans know that General of the Armies Douglas MacArthur was unceremoniously cashiered on orders from London, carried out by Averell Harriman (now married to Pamela Churchill) and Thomas Cabot of the venerable, opium-trading Tory family?

Or, how many Americans know that every single British Ambassador to Washington, from Lord Halifax during World War II to Sir Nicholas Henderson during the Falklands War were all members of the inner core of the so-called Milner Group?

The current betrayal of American interests to the Soviet Union by the British, as epitomized in the Geoffrey Prime spy scandal of late October, goes back to the origins of the Milner Group deployment into the United States. The Prime Affair is the direct continuation of the Philby Affair, which had been set up by Lord Halifax and by Sir Isaiah Berlin. In this sense, it will soon come to public light, both affairs are linked to the Kissinger affair. Back in 1945 at Oberammergau, Germany, associates of Isaiah Berlin, including Fritz Kraemer, arranged with John J. McCloy for young Henry to be a commonly shared asset of the Milner Group and Soviet intelligence.

Henry Kissinger's oligarchical script

At this time, Kissinger is following a public script written for him by Lord Home of Avon.

Henry has been reading this script to every public event since May 10. The United States must withdraw from positions of influence around the globe. Commanding no more than 24 percent of world GNP, as compared to over 52 percent in 1945, the United States no longer possesses the preconditions for playing a leading world role, Kissinger argues on advice from Lord Home. Therefore, we should revamp our foreign policy by allowing London's expert advice. As a result, U.S. influence in Latin America has been wiped out; in the Middle East it has all but disappeared; United States policy in the Pacific, beginning with the "China Card" has collapsed; Western Europe, according to the plan of Lord Carrington, is making its separate arrangements with the Soviet Union.

More ominously, since May 1982, with the constitutional change in Canada, Elizabeth II of England has become Elizabeth I of Canada, the person legally embodying the sovereignty of our northern neighbor.

This is the first time since the execution of Maximilian Hapsburg by the Mexican republicans that a monarchy has been restored in the Western Hemisphere, an act contrary to the Monroe Doctrine.
