

El Salvador to sit down at the negotiating table with the rebels.

But those efforts have, so far, come to naught. The Salvadoran negotiations have collapsed. Now Henry Kissinger is escalating his work of destruction.

In a speech last June in Houston, Kissinger said that Mexico had to be made to understand that it would face problems unless it changed its policy toward Central America. In the last week of September, the International Monetary Fund reportedly told hard pressed-Mexico: either you cut off oil supplies to Nicaragua, or your own international loans will be cut off. Mexico, along with Venezuela, provides low-cost oil to Central American nations under the San José accord.

Condeca revived, Monge activated

In August, a few days after Kissinger took office as head of Reagan's Bipartisan Commission on Central America, the president of Guatemala, would-be ayatollah Efraín Ríos Montt, was overthrown and replaced by Gen. Oscar Mejía.

Whereas Montt had resisted efforts to involve Guatemala in the regional conflict, on Oct. 1 Mejía hosted a secret meeting of Condeca, the Central American Defense Council, an organization that for all practical purposes had ceased to function 14 years ago. The meeting was attended by the head of the United States' Southern Command, Gen. Paul Gorman, as well as by Gen. Gustavo Álvarez, El Salvador's minister of defense, and by the head of Panama's National Guard, Gen. Antonio Noriega, as an observer. A statement was issued pledging the member countries of Condeca to "the use of force" to fight off the "extra-territorial Marxist-Leninist aggression against Central America."

Meanwhile, in preparation for his tour of Central America this month, Kissinger arranged for AFL-CIO president Lane Kirkland, a member of his commission, to sponsor a Sept. 30-Oct. 2 meeting on "Threats to Democracy in Central America," in conjunction with the AFL-CIO's Florida convention. This meeting—which was co-sponsored by the Institute for Free Labor Development (the AFL-CIO's State Department-funded arm), Georgetown University, and the Social Democrats U.S.A.—included a strategy session between Kissinger and several of the State Department's assets in Latin America.

Among them was Costa Rican President Luís Monge, whose most notable achievement since taking power has been to officially turn over his nation's long-term policy making to the Aspen Institute, a leading Malthusian institution headed by Kissinger crony Robert O. Anderson of Atlantic-Richfield.

Monge let out the content of the Kirkland meeting when on Oct. 3 he cast aside Costa Rica's traditional stance, and declared that he agreed with Kissinger's view that the Central American conflict required a military solution. "We agree that a military solution by itself is not enough," he said, "but the military way is inevitable."

ETA-Basque terror role: the real exposé

by Herbert Quinde

The much publicized arrest of a Basque ETA terrorist in Costa Rica, deployed to assassinate top leaders of the anti-Sandinista "contras," is cynically being used to fuel the anti-communist fire by Henry Kissinger and George Shultz, who are intent on increasing the body count in Central America.

What is being papered over is the fact that the terrorist deployment reveals active collaboration between a division of the Nazi International's separatist movement—ETA advocates the violent separation of the Basque country from the nations of Spain and France—and the Jesuit-led Nicaraguan government, backed by Cuba and the U.S.S.R. The intelligence agencies involved in the revelations (particularly the Israeli operatives of organized crime-linked former Defense Minister Ariel Sharon, who have close ties to the Costa Rican government), know that the whole dirty story leads right back to some of the closest associates of Henry Kissinger.

On Sept. 14, Angel Edmondo Solano, the Costa Rican minister of public security, announced that an ETA plan had been uncovered to eliminate leaders of the anti-Sandinista group ARDE, including Eden Pastora and Alfonso Robelo. Solano stated they had discovered a "veritable spider's web" with "incredible" international ramifications. The analysis from numerous channels is that the ETA team was trained and deployed by the Nicaraguan interior ministry, which is using European terrorists unknown to Central American security agencies.

On Sept. 13, Dirección de Inteligencia y Seguridad agents had arrested Gregorio Jiménez Morales (alias "El Pistolas"), an ETA member since 1980, who confessed to heading a several-member hit team. According to reports, he was deployed by ETA to track ARDE leaders. In May of this year, he traveled from Brussels to Moscow, to Havana, and then to Managua, where he stayed until early August for training. Jiménez Morales reportedly confessed receiving military training in a camp named Bilsa near Managua, run by Cuban and Palestinian advisers.

Spanish interior ministry sources have revealed that at least 100 "ETArras" have been trained in Nicaragua in the past two years, the majority belonging to "aboveground" terrorists who were forced to flee Spain. ETA-Sandinista contact began before the fall of Nicaraguan dictator Somoza in 1979, and included ETA instruction of Sandinistas in the use of explosives during the civil war.

The smell of an orchestrated exposé surfaced when Israeli intelligence-connected Spanish sources began to put out the line that Nicaragua has eclipsed Libya as a training camp for international terrorists.

Israeli intelligence, which commands the majority of “on-the-ground” information gathering for the United States in Central America, has long monitored the existence of Arab and European terrorist “international brigades” fighting with the Sandinistas and safehoused throughout the region. The Sandinista army includes Polisarios, Libyans, Palestinians, Granadans, Cubans, Russians, and East Germans.

But the lucrative arms traffic in Central America servicing both sides is in the hands of intimates of Henry Kissinger. One of these is Ariel Sharon; also involved is Arnold and Porter, the law firm of Henry’s “consulting business,” Kissinger Associates. According to Mexican government sources, the “international brigades” are armed through shipments of Uzi machine pistols among other weapons originating in Tel Aviv, passing through Costa Rica and Nicaragua, and finally into Pacific ports in southern Mexico. And law-enforcement authorities have known for a long time that ETA uses Costa Rica as a base for the arms-for-dope trade.

Team International: the Nazi/Communist connection

Nevertheless, the “spider’s web” discovered by Costa Rican authorities did not include mention of Team International. Directed by Sami Al-Banna, the nephew of Palestinian terror kingpin Abu Nidal, Team International is a reorganized network of Arab, European, and American terrorists which demonstrates the collaboration between the Nazi International, the Russian KGB.

The American Indian Movement (AIM), named by Spanish sources as under investigation in the ETA/Sandinista connection, is a case in point. The Spanish daily ABC reported that U.S. intelligence agencies had made aerial reconnaissance flights over Nicaragua because of concern over reports that AIM members were being trained in terrorist camps to be deployed in the United States.

In fact, the International Indian Treaty Council (IITC), an affiliate of AIM, has been an official adviser to the Sandinista government. William Means, brother of AIM leader Russell Means, is the executive director of IITC offices in New York City. The Means family is infamous for its participation in the Wounded Knee incident which left two U.S. federal law-enforcement officers dead. The IITC also collaborates with the radical PLO faction funded by Libya’s Qaddafi.

AIM and IITC personnel include lawyers who function as “diplomatic couriers” between separatist groups controlled by the Nazi International. Johnny Mohawk, AIM leader and editor of Akwesasne Notes, is a board member of the Nazi International’s West German-based Society for Endangered Peoples. For many years, he and other AIM operatives have maintained relations with Herri Batasuna, the political front man for ETA.

Something is rotten in

by Cincinnatus

There was something very rotten in the state of Denmark the week of Sept. 5. Since Olof Palme—who’s the social-democratic prime minister of Sweden—happens to be about as popular with some Danes as a bushel of snakes at a church social, Palme’s official visit to Copenhagen was not entirely a happy one. One of the local evening daily newspapers ran a story about Olof’s Nazi uncle—the one who headed up I. G. Farben operations at the Auschwitz concentration-camp. Palme had a hopping-mad fit right then and there. You might have thought someone had mentioned the name “LaRouche” to him.

Naturally, as the monkey said to Darwin, we mustn’t necessarily judge a fellow by his relatives. I’d say that this Olof is one of the cases we’d have to make an exception to that general rule. Right off, looking up the branches of Palme’s family-tree, there’s this Nazi uncle on one branch and that cousin R. Palme-Dutt, who used to be a high mucky-muck with the British Communists and Moscow. The reason so many Danes and Norwegians hate this critter Olof so much is not just that Olof runs pretty much with the same crowd as Henry Kissinger; they consider Olof out-and-out pretty much a Soviet tool. When one social democrat considers another social democrat a Moscow tool, you’ve just got to pay attention to the facts involved. Then, at the same time, there’s this Dr. Per Engdahl from Malmö, Sweden, who’s head of the Nazi International in that neck of the woods. Dr. Engdahl, who knows Palme personally, says Olof’s a genuine fascist, and points pretty convincingly to the program of the Social Democratic party in Sweden to prove the point.

Around Europe, there are a lot of fellows the intelligence services have listed as “Nazi Communists.” These are fellows with Nazi pasts, some still connected to François Genoud’s Nazi International, who are also working with the Soviet KGB against the United States. Some of these fellows are social democrats, others are key figures in the anti-nuclear-energy and peace movements in Europe, some run around in burnooses and call themselves something like Sheikh Achmed von Schicklgruber. I won’t go into all of that here. I’ll just tell you a few key facts about Olof’s connection to
