

New dossier reveals Bulgarian-Gnostic link behind abduction in Colombia

by Nora Hamerman

The cultist thugs from the Universal Christian Gnostic Church who abducted Colombian anti-drug fighter Patricia Paredes de Londoño last July 26 and attempted to brainwash her, subscribe to a program for world domination through terrorism, Nazi eugenics, and mass brainwashing. These are some of the shocking conclusions documented in a second evidentiary dossier on the case, released Aug. 10 by the International Caucus of Labor Committees and the National Anti-Drug Coalition.

The 48-page dossier also shows that the Gnostic belief structure of Mrs. Londoño's abductors is the state religion of the People's Republic of Bulgaria, the government of which has recently been identified in U.S. government reports as a key center of the international drug- and arms-smuggling mafia and a nexus of international terrorism.

Finally, the dossier documents the connections between the Gnostic government of Bulgaria and former Colombian President Alfonso López Michelsen, the godfather of the Colombian dope mafia and protector of the Universal Christian Gnostic Church in Colombia.

On July 30, while Mrs. Londoño, the wife of Colombian National Anti-Drug Coalition vice-president Maximiliano Londoño, was still in captivity, a first dossier of 46 pages was released to press and relevant government agencies. It showed that Patricia Londoño's disappearance was part of an all-out war by the Colombia drug mafia against the Colombian government of President Belisario Betancur, and documented that ex-President Alfonso López Michelsen had come forward brazenly as the drug traffickers' spokesman in the very days when Patricia Londoño was abducted.

The international mobilization carried out in the press led to Patricia Londoño's release on Aug. 1, but she remains in an acutely disassociated state. She is hospitalized in the Hospital Departamental of Cali, Colombia, suffering from the effects of an attempted "Patty Hearst"-style brainwashing.

Dossier No. 2 pursues the lead opened by the case of Arturo Cortes Cadena, a member of Colombia's Universal Christian Gnostic Church, who presented himself on July 30 claiming to be Patricia Londoño's lawyer, while refusing to tell the whereabouts of the victim. Cortes Cadena revealed that his protector was José Vicente Márquez, the secretary of the Seventh commission of the Colombian Congress, in charge of labor affairs. Vicente Márquez turned out to be a powerful influence in the Colombian trade-union movement who works closely with the labor attaché of the U.S. Embassy in Bogotá.

Vicente Márquez is a top-ranking member of the Universal Christian Gnostic Church of Colombia, which was first legalized in 1974 by Alfonso López Michelsen. A book by Gnostic patriarch Samael Aún Weor describing the method for "annihilation of the ego" is dedicated to Vicente Márquez, among others. Márquez is described throughout Weor's works as one of his leading disciples.

What is Gnosticism?

The Gnostic cult is coherent with the ideology of a "Nazi-Communist" alliance which deploys hallucinogenic drugs and terrorism as weapons to destroy Western, Judeo-Christian civilization. From its emergence as a heresy against early Christianity, Gnosticism has insisted on:

- The evil of the material world. In practice, anything goes—murder, rape, pillage—in the material world, because it is not reality. Thus Gnostics did not worship their god through works in the world, but attacked the world and its population with unparalleled viciousness.

- The paramount importance of the "feminine principle" in the organization of the universe. That is, Man is not made in God's image as creator—for the "true God" would do nothing so stupid as to create the material world—but as passive object. In practice, the Gnostic "religion" consists mainly of sexual rituals in which men turn into women and women turn into men, with the explicit ideal being the "androgynous"—the sexually ambiguous being.

- The unending battle between "good" and "evil." There is no unifying principle in the world, but a chaos of apocalyptic battle between conflicting "cosmic armies."

- Viewing Judaism and Christianity as the religion of stupid masses, with their emphasis on the individual, his importance and creativity. Gnosticism is the property of elite masters who know that mankind is cattle. Gnosticism perverts the content of the traditions of Judeo-Christianity to create an amoral and ineffable spirit-world and a philosophy of "everything is permitted"—as Nazi philosophers expressed it.

The paramount example of a Gnostic movement come to power in the 20th century is the case of Adolf Hitler, who, as the dossier documents, was trained by Gnostics and selected to bring into being their new world order.

In a 1965 book titled The Social Transformation of Humanity, Samael AÚn Weor makes no secret of the Gnostics' agreement with the Nazis on policies of race supremacy and sterilization of "undesirables," the crimes against humanity for which Nazi war criminals were hanged at Nuremberg. A sample of quotations from this tract:

"We need to control fertility and not births, because the latter would be criminal. . . . If we want a better world, it is necessary to improve the human seed. . . . Selecting seeds is not criminal. If we have the right to select plant and animal seeds, we also have the right to select human seeds. It is absurd to allow the continuation of thieves, homosexuals, prostitutes, etc., etc. . . . The Latin American Socialist Christian Party [the Gnostics' political arm] asks for the sterilization of delinquents. It is absurd not to control fertility. It is absurd to allow the reproduction of murderers, prostitutes, thieves, homosexuals, drug addicts, rapists, etc., etc. If preventive medicine uses vaccines to prevent diseases, why not use sterilization with X-rays to save society? By getting rid of delinquents, we could have a society without police, without borders, without jails, without governments, without armies. Without criminals we would have an Eden-like land, a true paradise where the rivers of the pure water of life would issue milk and honey. . . . The control of fertility can also extend to the realm of the sick. . . . It is absurd to allow the reproduction of syphilitics, lepers, mental cases, monsters, etc."—Transformation, Ch. XXX)

The same book tries to outdo Hitler in anti-Semitism:

"Yet Hitler's doctrine is not the doctrine of all German people. . . . Hitler was a reformer in Germany; that country was full of roads, railways, etc. Hitler eliminated poverty in Germany, and it is clear that the German population wisely responded to him, sacrificing itself for him and his absurd plans. . . . Hitler could have solved all of Germany's problems through wise negotiations, but he preferred violence, and violence never solves anything. The Germans are Aryans, but we Latin Americans are also Aryans. All races are composed of seven sub-races. The German people is the fifth sub-race of the Aryan race, and we Latin Americans are the sixth sub-race of the Aryan race. Hitler's mistake was to believe that only the German people was Aryan. It is necessary to know that all races in the world are Aryan, except the Jews."—(Transformation, Ch. VII)

Vicente Márquez's teacher, Samael AÚn Weor, proclaims that the "Aquarian" world "revolution" the Gnostics seek cannot be brought about without the transformation of the individual, which is to be achieved through sexual rites and a six-point program for "dissolution of the I." The points of this program correspond to a method of brainwashing, to which Patricia Paredes de Londoño's abductors subjected her, as extensive quotations from Weor's book in the dossier prove.

Also in the dossier is the full text of a Peruvian magazine's interview in November 1983 with Jaime Bateman, the head of the drug-running M-19 terrorist group in Colombia who was killed last year. Bateman avowed that he was "protected" by the Gnostics.

Bulgaria, Gnosticism, and the drug mafia

by Rachel Douglas and Carlos Potes

Investigators working on diverse cases have uncovered voluminous evidence of involvement by the People's Republic of Bulgaria, its secret services, its foreign trade and other official organizations, in terrorism and narcotics and arms trafficking. The answer to why Bulgaria, as much or more than any other nominally "communist" state, should play this role, is to be found in its history as a hotbed of militant Gnosticism from the 10th century down to the present day.

If the Gnostic belief structure not only tolerates, but requires, terrorism—which it does, as a path to reach the Light (Mother) by destroying the "false" order of the world of Darkness—then Bulgaria is a natural for the production of terrorists.

Once the Gnostic belief structure of Bulgarian officialdom is revealed, the question arises as to whether the participation of Bulgarian agents in the assassination attempt against Pope John Paul II was motivated by an anti-Christian, Gnostic strategic purpose far more than putative "communist" goals.

The fact that Gnosticism, with its centuries-long history on Bulgarian soil, is thriving there today, is demonstrated by the career of Lyudmila Zhivkova (1942-1981). Daughter of Todor Zhivkov, the President of Bulgaria and first secretary of the Bulgarian Communist Party, Zhivkova presided over a transformation of official cultural policy in the direction of Gnosticism. As head of the government Committee on Art
