Summer Shields' write-in campaign against House Squeaker Nancy Pelosi let voters in California's 8th CD know that there was an alternative: Now, he intends to press for victory.

Summer Shields

'For Their Deeds Do Follow Them'

Dec. 18—Summer Shields, the former Democratic write-in candidate against Nancy Pelosi in the November 2010 elections, today issued the following open letter to the citizens of the 8th District of California (San Francisco), and beyond, in which he announced his new campaign for Congress.

Dear Citizen,

Do not let that horrible aftertaste in your mouth, caused by the recent mid-term election, become the pessimism that creates your own self-inflicted doom. Pessimism under these circumstances of economic collapse and war is not only the most deadly response to this misfortune—it is downright suicide! If you are wise, you don't fight for your immediate self-interests; you fight for the beautiful future that you may never even experience yourself.

The story is told that a quartet of string players working through the last compositions of Beethoven, in his presence, came to a stop partway through a piece, and when the now-deaf composer looked up from conducting, and saw that they had stopped, they told him that they could not continue, for they did not understand what they were playing. He responded: "It is no matter, keep playing, for I composed these pieces not for the present, but for a future age."

Today, the fight we must wage is simple and clear—yet, it is one of the most difficult things to do, precisely because it contains within it that same principle of the future that Beethoven lived for.

The first step: Get rid of this stinking British monetary system once and for all, by reinstating Glass-Steagall. Clean out our banking system by simply tossing out the worthless debt in the form of speculative derivatives, and return, once and for all, to Alexander Hamilton's national credit policy, upon which our U.S. Constitution is based and our fate currently hangs.

Step number two: I propose that we go big, with the biggest science-driver project that were ever embarked on by man: the North American Water and Power Alliance (NAWAPA). Not only will we create a minimum of 4 million new jobs, we will change mankind's conception of himself. Don't you think your children deserve a real future? Let's take today's "no future" generation, those poor, unskilled young people, who live most of their lives either in cyberspace or out on the streets, and give them something worth living for, by training them for this kind of mission in a Franklin Roosevelt-style Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC).

Step three: We are not going to do it all alone. Don't think that other nations don't want this exact same future—they do! We will reach our hands out across the Pacific, where the nations of China, Russia, and India are already engaged in some of the most technologically and scientifically advanced projects, including a full-scale nuclear renaissance, new space programs, and the development of the interior of the continents through rail and transformative water management projects. The European nations across the Atlantic will be invited to join in this prosperity as well.

Now here is the catch: In order to accomplish any of this, that psychotic narcissist Barack Obama must be removed from office, using the 25th Amendment.

It is for these reasons, because there exists no competent understanding of leadership within the general public, that I am announcing my candidacy for the Democratic nomination to the U.S. Congress in 2012, against that squeaker of the House Nancy Pelosi. Only this time, I will be on the ballot. On top of that, the two other LaRouche Democrats who ran for Congress in the last election, Kesha Rogers and Rachel Brown, will be joining me once again.

I know that it is not easy, especially during these times, to stand up to popular opinion and to the demoralization of your fellow citizens, especially when you are standing up to fight for a future that you may not experience within your mortal life. However, it must be done. I am willing to take up this fight and so should you.

Cowardice and pessimism is a fate worse than death.
