

Start with Removing Obama

In his presentation on the LaRouchePAC Weekly Report Dec. 29, Lyndon LaRouche could not have been clearer. “There is no issue,” he said, “so important, so urgent, so significant, that getting Obama out is not the number-one issue for civilization, for the human race as a whole, at this time. And anybody who conceives of it as less, is not on the job. They’re either a coward or stupid, one of the two.”

The good news, of course, is that an increasing number of Americans, and international political leaders, have come around to agree with LaRouche on this matter. We’re not talking about official polls, but encounters with citizens on the street, including a growing ration of African-Americans. They can no longer bring themselves to defend the President who has slavishly served Wall Street, and led the American people down to Hell.

The bad news, is that many of these very same Americans, especially leading political figures, still refuse to take the public, aggressive, immediate actions required to remove the President from office. They—and maybe, you—are desperately looking for some other issue, some “little corner of the world,” to deal with, rather than take on the central obstruction to LaRouche’s program for reversing the worst physical-economic and cultural decline that mankind has faced in centuries.

There is no avoiding the Hitler comparison in Obama’s case. Forget the trappings, and look at the content of what this President has done, and the personality which he flaunts. Obama has exhibited delusions of dictatorial power from the start, and has behaved with deceit toward the entire institution of government. He did that with the so-called health-care reform, with the so-called financial reform, with matters of national security, and military policy.

Even more important, is the content of the policies which he has implemented. It was always obvious to the cognoscenti, and Lyndon LaRouche pointed it out as early as April 2009, but now it is writ large: Obama’s policy toward human life and the state is a Nazi policy. He has fully embraced the Nazi philosophy that there are “lives not worthy to be lived,” and fashioned, with close British collaboration, an entire health-care policy based on that concept. If he is allowed to carry through this policy, he will kill many more people than Adolf Hitler.

So, Obama must be removed. Constitutionally, and peacefully, through the section of the 25th Amendment, which permits the removal of de-ranked Presidents for cause. We have no choice if we want to survive.

We again quote LaRouche:

“The issue is, you’ve got the entire world system about to go into a dive, into a Dark Age! Europe is the primary area of vulnerability, in terms of structure, because the European structure is much more shattered than that of the United States. In the United States, getting Obama out, would be sufficient, to proceed with steps, which could save the United States, and thus save Europe, and thus save the world.”

Those steps are ones adequately outlined in the rest of this magazine: 1) restore FDR’s Glass-Steagall law; 2) provide immediate urgent relief to the cities and the states which are now disintegrating; and 3) immediately launch the North American Water and Power Alliance (NAWAPA), as the core of a world recovery program.

That’s the job for 2011. And it starts with removing Obama.
