

Brutish Blair Invades U.S., Makes Zombies of Senators

March 8—At just the moment British Prime Minister Gordon Brown was making his ill-fated visit to President Obama in the White House, former Prime Minister Tony Blair was leading a top-level British Fabian delegation to kick off three days of closed-door brainwashing of hundreds of carefully selected influential Americans and foreign guests in Washington. Blair's team included top climate hoaxster Lord (or "Lurid") Prof. Nicholas Stern, and Britain's Environment Minister Ed Miliband; Lyndon LaRouche dubbed it "the Brutish Invasion of Washington."

Blair and company were more successful in their anti-U.S. mission than Brown.

Their demand is that Obama's Washington fall in lockstep with a green-fascist world regime of deindustrialization, carbon swaps, and windmills. And London refuses to accept the fact that the Group of 20 has booted "climate change" off the agenda of its April 2 summit on the world economic breakdown crisis. Britain still insists that so-called global warming be discussed there, in order to wreck the meeting and insure that nothing gets done. Indeed, the British Foreign Office just sent Blair's genocidal buddy Prince Charles off on a tour of South America, specifically to force the global warming hoax back onto the G-20 agenda.

The three days of brainwashing sessions began the morning of March 2 with a closed Capitol Hill confab where Blair and his friends raved at 15 Senators, three governors, and several Congressmen and business executives. When reporters were allowed in afterwards, they heard testimonials to Blair from Sens. Debbie Stabenow (D-Mich.) and Olympia Snowe (R-Me.).

LaRouche said, "Even Senators emerging from a meeting with the Blair crowd, came out looking like zombies." Stabenow gushed breathlessly, "Blair focussed us. Britain is a leader. We have a lot to learn about climate change and how to create jobs." Snowe added, "Blair is a historic leader. Europe is in the vanguard of change, thanks to him. No country can go it alone. Europe has spearheaded the way. We will mitigate climate change while creating the jobs of the future."

"What jobs?" LaRouche asked. "Gravediggers' jobs?"
