

interest centered historically in the oligarchical insurance firms and private oligarchical family funds of the Venice-Trieste-Padua region. These oligarchists, who brought Mussolini to power, are the same forces behind the Club of Rome, the World Wildlife Fund, and the command of the OECD adjunct of NATO.

The policy of that rentier-financier oligarchy, then as now, has been the destruction of the institutions of the modern sovereign nation-state, in favor of the creation of a zero-technological-growth sort of Malthusian world-federalist order, just as the OECD and the OECD's Club of Rome offshoots openly advocate. Since the beginning of the present century, these forces, the immediate backers of the archetypical fascist Friedrich Nietzsche, have associated their anti-technology utopian schemes with the proposal to supersede the age of Pisces (Christ) with the Age of Aquarius (Lucifer-Apollo). For them, as for their ideologue Nietzsche, the creation of chaos in the tradition of the cult of Dionysus is a medium of policy. The deployment of bands of killer-zombies as instruments of terror is an essential instrument of policy of those who seek to demolish the institutions of the technologically progressive modern sovereign republic, to make way for a "feudalist" sort of Malthusian utopia globally.

Once we have traced control of international terrorism into the leadership of Italy's Freemasonic lodges, as Italian authorities have done successfully so far, we discover that the terrorist-controlling leaders of these lodges are interlinked inseparably from the top level of Venetian and Swiss banking and insurance firms, including the powerful RAS insurance complex. These are the same financier interests immediately behind the Club of Rome. These are the interests which Italian authorities have recently proven to have been complicit in deploying the assassin Agca in the attempt to assassinate the Pope.

The issue

Unless the United States and other nations have the courage to crush the oligarchical financier forces behind international terrorism and Malthusianism, the onset of the present Volcker world depression has created a combination of internal social and strategic problems for leading nations of the West out of which no survival of civilization as we have known it is probable. The question is whether we have the moral fitness to survive. Unless we clean the Trilateral gang out of the Executive Branch and free the major parties from control of Trilateral types, and unless we crush the Malthusian efforts of the Club of Rome and its allies, this civilization will not long survive. Unless we approach international terrorism as an evil deployed by Venice-centered Malthusian "futurists," our failure to do so defines us as having lost the moral fitness to survive.

'Now the time for justice has come'

The May 23, 1978 issue of EIR carried a three-page statement by Lyndon H. LaRouche, Jr. titled "The Time For Justice Has Come," excerpted from a longer brief on the method required for combating terrorism. Authorities in Italy are now, in large part, moving on the very leads LaRouche emphasized in 1978. Selections from that statement follow.

The tortured captivity and death of [former Prime Minister Aldo] Moro must be transformed into a sacrifice that gives Signor Moro's having lived and suffered greater meaning for society than had his life continued without this trauma. . . . Although key elements of European intelligence and security services largely agree with my own published analysis of terrorism, at least in respect to the facts about the terrorists and their creators, no government, including the government of Italy, has yet adopted that policy or given its intelligence and security forces the directive and mandate for the correspondingly appropriate antiterrorist measures.

The root of this problem is not the governments' reluctance to deal with the terrorists themselves. Governments are not to be blamed casually for this reluctance. Behind terrorism stands the British monarchy, U.S.A. forces associated with both Henry Kissinger and Senator Edward Kennedy, influential circles in Switzerland, and, of course, the government of Israel. In addition to state forces behind the terrorists, there are powerful financial forces, such as those City of London networks associated with Cuccia of Mediobanca in Italy and the oligarchist Agnelli family. To attack the financier forces behind terrorism is to engage in an open confrontation with financial forces which threaten to bring down national credit and national economies. This is aggravated by British secret-intelligence networks within each principal

European parliamentary party. . . .

As long as intelligence and security agencies are limited by instructions and mandate to methods which presume that terrorists are "an independent, indigenous force," the security actions are the labor of Sisyphus: terrorist forces will increase more rapidly than death and capture depletes their forces. What intelligence and security forces are permitted to do—chiefly chasing the lowest rank terrorist expendables from one safe-house and safe-conduit to another—is at best a massive exertion which does not scratch the essential problem.

Only on condition that governments direct and mandate their security forces to deal with the problem of Phrygian Dionysian murder cults, an instrument of a supranational oligarchical faction centered in the British monarchy, can the problem be controlled.

Once the problem is properly defined in that way, the investigation lends itself to computer-assisted supervision. Start, for example, with British anti-terrorist forces, including emphatically Special Air Services: this and Lord Wingate's networks in Israel put one on the main lines for tracing networks of professional training of terrorists. The highly trained terrorists are trained in techniques developed by SAS and other antiterrorist professionals, and trained in significant part by professional antiterrorist instructors from SAS and similar institutions. Start, for example, with Henry A. Kissinger, the Harvard University Mazzini Society, coordinated by the same British Special Intelligence Services operative, William Yandell Elliott, who guided Kissinger in SIS training and service. This procedure produces a network grid of utmost relevance for Italy.

In Italy, trace out the interface among the fascist MSI, Israeli intelligence, Agnelli-linked elements of the "Black Nobility," the British "White Resistance" network, and the Action Party-Justice and Liberty network. The interfacing and overlaps of these, including Cuccia's Mediobanca-Lazard elements, identify the hard-core of the privileged terrorist infrastructure in Italy.

Within the Socialist International trace out first those networks of personalities which fall into the 1930s and war-time networks of the Amsterdam and London "Socialist-anarchosyndicalist internationals" overlapping the Independent Labour Party in Britain between the wars. Grid these elements of the Socialist International with their networks in communist organizations—notably typified by the connection among Israeli intelligence, Bettino Craxi, Spain's Santiago Carrillo, and Amendola and Napolitano of the Italian Communist Party (PCI). This aids in locating the interfaces involving Feltrinelli into Hamburg, the PCI, the Italian Socialist Party (PSI), the black nobility circuits through which the Red Brigades were developed under the patronage of Alberoni.

Interface this with the international networks of the Kennedy family's creation, the Institute for Policy Studies (IPS). This includes the British-Dutch-IPS center for international terrorism spanning from the London Institute for Race Relations to the Transnational Institute.

Interface these with the members and spin-off organizations of the London Institute for the Study of Conflict, the Royal Institute of International Affairs, the International Institute for Strategic Studies, Tavistock Institute, and the all-important Bertrand Russell networks.

Add the U.S.-Berlin Aspen Institute and the World Watch Institute. Add the Club of Rome. Add Oxford University's Balliol College, the London School of Economics, and intelligence-linked other sections of Oxford, Cambridge and Sussex universities.

Add, now, the factional divisions within Freemasonry. Grid Rothschild, Lazard, Oppenheimer, Barings, Schroeder, Hambros, Lloyds, and other British and Anglo-German banking networks.

Add British Sunni and Shi'ite networks in the Islamic sector, using such figures as Witteveen as useful points of reference. Include Sicco Mansholt as an important element, as well as Denis Healey, Roy Jenkins, Winston Churchill III, Robert Moss, Christopher Mayhew, Robert Swann, and so forth as key British SIS executives. Recognize that both the World Federalists and Amnesty International are British intelligence organization-covers, and grid them and their influential members and cells as key elements of the tracing. Trace out the element of British MI-5 in Interpol, and British networks within NATO.

This is by no means complete, but it is an adequate basic beginning.

Having prescribed the approach for building a computer data-base, we are now prepared and obliged to prescribe the crucial point of methodology which study of these networks requires. Apart from the fact that the appearance of an individual name in the network does signify a channel of influence, the point is not to round up each and every individual whose name appears. The issue of method is important from what is otherwise less important or downright misleading.

For first approximation, count the number of lines of intersection impinging upon each organization and individual. Those of prominence because of the great number of intersections now have heavier lines drawn from them to each of their associations. Now, study the whole a second time, weighting the evaluation from combined factions of heavy ordinary lines converging upon any point. This determines double-heavy lines.

That done, now reexamine the whole array not in terms of individuals, but of patterns. This gives a good first approximation of the main patterns defining networks and principal nodes. . . .

If you will not take this advice from me alone, there are those within the Church who also understand this method. . . .
