

Why Obama White House Targets LaRouche

Senior U.S. intelligence officials, along with leading figures within the Democratic Party, have warned that the Obama White House is in the process of launching a massive dirty operations campaign against Lyndon LaRouche and his associates. These warnings come in the context of the accelerating unraveling of the Obama Presidency, driven by his clearly impeachable conduct in evading Congress's exclusive Constitutional authority to declare war in the current Libya case.

What Obama's British controllers, if not he himself, know, is that, barring a successful massive police-state campaign against the growing opposition to his policies, the President faces almost inevitable impeachment and ouster. Thus, the motive for targeting the leadership of not only the opposition, but of the only alternative policies to the President: LaRouche and his movement.

Senior U.S. intelligence officials pointedly warned that the Obama White House and campaign organization are pressing for support in their efforts against LaRouche from leading political figures in the Democratic Party. It is only from that standpoint that you can understand why, over the end of last week, Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid, Sen. Barbara Boxer, and House Minority Leader Nancy Pelosi all came out publicly defending President Obama's flagrant violation of the U.S. Constitution, Article I Section 8, and the War Powers Act, knowing full well that the President had committed an impeachable offense.

Leading Democratic Party figures explained this bizarre behavior from the standpoint that the Democrats fear that the demise of President Obama will bring Lyndon LaRouche to the fore as the only serious political leader who dared speak the truth about Obama and his British controllers.

So, in effect, Reid, Boxer, and Pelosi fell on the sword, in defending the President's indefensible behavior on the Libya War, out of fear of LaRouche's emergence as a folk hero, and a leader of a movement for a revolutionary change in U.S. policy—beginning with the passage of the Glass-Steagall restoration, now pending before the House in H.R. 1489.

This act of near political suicide on the part of Reid, Boxer, and Pelosi was one of the first public signals that the White House has launched illegal operations against the LaRouche organization.

This is deadly serious business. Both the intelligence community and Democratic Party sources conveyed their reports out of a deep sense of patriotism, and out of the recognition that if the Office of the Presidency is deployed to suppress LaRouche's voice at this critical juncture, the United States is doomed, and the rest of civilization goes down as well.

The specter of an American Ermächtigungsgesetz, the Enabling Law that gave Hitler absolute power to discard the German Constitution, is unmistakable, to be ignored at our peril.

With the entire European Monetary Union on the verge of disintegration, with leading European governments on the edge of collapse, starting with the Merkel government in Germany, and with Wall Street bracing for the Trans-Atlantic financial tsunami to hit, LaRouche's demands for the immediate reinstatement of Glass-Steagall, before the July 4th celebrations, is gaining tremendous traction, with increasing institutional support from the labor movement, civil rights organizations, and others. It is precisely for this reason that the Obama White House and campaign team have embarked on a reckless and illegal campaign of dirty tricks and reprisals.
